Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-3, 5, 9-10, 14-16, and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Fujioka ('614).

Fujioka discloses a an automatic gear shifting device comprising means for selectively shifting gears (150, 170), a brake pedal (88), an arm (86), an end portion, means for providing reciprocating motion, a transmission linkage cable (90) coupled to the arm, a transmission shift stick (11), a transmission linkage shaft (150, 170), a member (68) with an opening, and at least an actuator (102).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 4, 11, 15, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fujioka ('614) in view of Altherr et al. ('861).

Fujioka does not show a multiplicity of holes for fixing the member with respect to the compartment of the motor vehicle. However, using holes with conventional fasteners is a well-known method in the art for fixing automotive components. For example, Altherr et al. discloses a device for returning a lever to neutral with holes for fixing the plate (11) with respect to the vehicle. Then, it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made provides holes in the member of Fujioka in view of Altherr et al. to securely fix the member to a body member of the vehicle.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6, 12 and 19 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

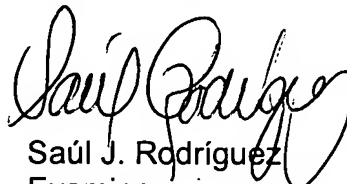

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Bota ('531) and Tsutsui et al. ('646) disclose a device for shifting to neutral to enhance fuel efficiency. Muratomi (804) disclose another transmission control apparatus with automatic-shifting-to-neutral.
